Evaluating Business and Industry Training Leslie Steven May, Carol Ann Moore, Stephen J. Zammit, 2012-12-06 In the abstract, training is seen as valuable by most people in business and industry. However, in the rush of providing training programs on time and within budget, evaluation of training is frequently left behind as a nice to have addition, if practical. In addition, the training function itself is left with the dilemma of proving its worth to management without a substantive history of evaluation. This book is designed to provide managers, educators, and trainers alike the opportunity to explore the issues and benefits of evaluating business and industry training. The purpose is to motivate more effective decisions for training investments based on information about the value of training in attaining business goals. Without evaluation, the value of specific training efforts cannot be adequately measured, the value of training investments overall cannot be fully assessed, and the contributions of the training function to the corporation's goals cannot be duly recognized. Articles are grouped into three sections, although many themes appear across sections. The first section establishes the context of training evaluation in a business organization. The second section emphasizes evaluation of training products and services; and the third section discusses costs and benefits of evaluation, and communication and use of evaluation results in decision making. In Section I, the context of training evaluation is established from a variety of perspectives. First, training and training evaluation are discussed in the context of corporate strategic goals.

It identified 8 process capabilities, which have been identified as the key functions in the design, delivery and management of corporate workforce training.

Paid Training John Cerasani, 2011-12 John Cerasani is an entrepreneurial success through a number of business endeavors. With his practical approach and business savvy, Cerasani has proven that the underdog can compete and win against larger, more established competitors. John's founding and subsequent success of Northwest Comprehensive, Inc. serves as the motivation in inspiring him to create the message of Paid Training. Paid Training is ideal for anyone who ever considered becoming a business owner as well as anyone who is ready to be open-minded enough to understand the pitfalls of working for someone else in the long term. John draws on his business experiences to demonstrate the path to enable any reader to compete and win as a start-up operation while going head-to-head against multimillion-dollar organizations. The message of Paid Training not only frowns upon the idea of working for someone else, it shuns the idea of trying and failing multiple times before you get it right. Paid Training enables readers to get it right . . . the first time.
